BOTTS UPON TAYLOR .- There are few persons who have paid any attention to the political history of the country during the last fifteen years, who are not familiar with the name of Jno. Minor Botts-the whig representative in Congress from the Richmond district, Virginia. For years past he has been a distinguished leader in the whig ranks. He Address of the democratic whige of New York is the same who was to head Captain TYLER, after his veto of the Bank bill; and who has always been a whig dyed in the wool. The following letter, addressed by him to the committee of the great Clay meeting, held in Vaux hall Garden, New York, is one of the most truthful and spicy commentaries on the nomination of Gen. TAYLOR we have met with. is particularly interesting, when it is considered that it comes from the pen of so distinour whig readers. They will acknowledge that its perusal is very interesting:

RICHMOND, Septembe 6, 1848. terday, by which I was delighted to hear of as, and the three votes of Arkansas, cast by ting Gen. Taylor to be a Wheg candidate, compass, or guide, or landmark—they launch- River. (which I utterly deny,) the party is doomed ed this "available" nomination, and adjournto certain, inevitable, and disgraceful defeat, ed and every man not wilfully blind must see it. It was an inexcusable blunder to suppose that from a million and a quarter to a million and a half of free, independent Whig voters could be wheeled into line at the word of command from some fifty or sixty Washington politicians (most of whom had scarcely shed their pin-feathers in politics) for a candidate who had never filled a civil station, and who had not for forty years and perhaps in his life, given | friends. a vote for man or measure; without experience or knowledge of the practical operations of any one of the domestic questions about J. J. Crittenden, Ky., Jona. W. Doolittle, Vt, which we had differed; of no acquaintance J. W. Webb, of N. Y., Horace Greely, at large. with our foreign relations; who had said to the people "You must take me on your own responsibility"-" I will not be the candidate of a party," nor " will I be the exponent of your party principles," nor "look to the doctrines of your party as the rule of my action; and while he professes to shrink from no responsibility, steadily refuses to give his opinion on any one question, except the practical use of the veto power; and declared his determination not to be governed by the action of the Convention, but would be a candidate, no matter who might be nominated; & in my judg ment his name never should have been considered in that Convention after he made that But this last objection, it was said, had been removed by the pledges made for him by Judge Saunders, in behalf of the Louisiana delegation, which he subsequently adopted by a card written by his authority, and published by Bailie Peyton, Bullett, &c , and this declaration was held up by the Taylor men and whig presses of the country as sufficient to reconcile all whigs to his election. That Peyton card and his cordial acceptance of the nomination had placed him upon the whig platform; and just at the moment when many of us had brought our minds to the conclusion to vote for him, however reluctantly, he writes another letter, in which he says he would have accepted the nomination from the Baltimore convention on the same terms on which he accepted the Philadelphia nomination! What becomes then of the Saunders pledge What becomes of the Peyton card? And if it be true that there were no terms expressed or implied in the Philadelphia nomination that would be inconsistent with an acceptance of the democratic nomination at Baltimore, in what an attitude does it place the whig party selecting as their candidate the one who could with equal propriety have become the candidate of their opponents? And if not true, in what a position does it place General Taylor?

But what I desire to learn is this! If Gen. Taylor is not bound by the action of the Philadelphia convention, who is! And if he may disregard its recommendations, who may not? And if he is bound by their action, what right has he to lend the influence of his name to the defeat of Mr. Fillmore, who was associated with him, by the same body of men, by accepting a nomination with Gen. Butler, a locofoco, whose election he thereby assists in promoting. In short, his whole course of conduct is insulting to the whig party, and especially to all those who participated in the proceedings at Philadelphia, and if they had any whig spirit left in them, they would re-

If it is ascertained that the purposes of that convention was perverted from its original legitimate objects of ascertaining and giving expression to public sentiment; by smothering it on the one hand, and manufacturing it on the other-or, in other words, if it has been ascentained (of which there is no doubt) that the nomination was made through the instrumentality of politicians, without the slightest reference to the public will, and that the interests of the party are likely to be sacrificed by it; then I hold that the error ought to be corrected promptly by the people themselves, and I trust in God the meeting you notify me of may put the ball in motion, that it may roll and gather as it rolls, until the whig party shall have its eyes opened to its true condition, and uniting as one man, on the only one who lives embalmed in the hearts of his countrymen, we may command a triumph, that our real strength entitles us to achieve. I shall be in New York very shortly. Yours truly, in great haste,

JOHN M. BOTTS

The No-Pledge Party.-The great Whig party of 1844, with the "Great Embodiment" at its head, stood upon a "Platform" of which they were then as proud as of their gallant and distinguished leader. The same party now, with another "Embodiment," repudiates "Platforms," in terms shocking to the whigh nerves of 1844, and boldly avows its preference for a candidate who, in the course of a public (military) life of 40 years, "has not had time to form political opinions." Mark the contrast. Now, the no party whigs of Virginia unfurl their banners with the principles of "no-party" inscribed unon them, but, in 1844, when ever a Whig banner was seen, the following declaration of principles was always read.

" WHIG ELECTORAL TICKET IN 1844. For President of the United States, HENRY CLAY, OF KENTUCKY, The Glory of his Country, and the first Living Statesman.

For Vice President. THEODORE FRELINGHUYSEN. OF NEW JERSEY, An Upright and Able Statesman, and Honest

We have been much edified and pleased to see how exactly the opinion of the anti-Taylor, Clay whigs of New-York tallies with our own, as to the motives that influenced the Philadelphia "Slaughter House" in nominating Gen. Taylor. From the address put forth at the great Clay demonstration, we clip the following opening paragrapy. We would have our readers to recollect, that this is not the language of a " parcel of Locofocos," but of leading Whigs of the great State of New-York. Is it not forcible and true?

to the democratic whige of the U. States. Impelled by every consideration of duty principle, and right, we come before you, fellow-citizens, painfully impressed with the necessity which compels our dissent from the Philadelphia nomination. Upon the sole ground of "availability," the great and solid principles upon which are reared the structure of our government were there cast aside. For 'availability" merely, a person was selected whose only claims were his military achievements. Urging "availability," our own beloved CLAY, and all those great leaders who, by guished a whig. We commend its perusal to their civil services, have made the whig party illustrious " for all time," were overslaughed and a mere soldier substituted. New York, April 28, 1847.

Dr. Townsend-I verily believe that your Sarsapari has been the means, through Providence, of saving my life. I have for several years had a bad cough. It becar worse and worse. At last I raised large quanties of blood, had night sweats, and was greatly debilitated and reduced, and did not expect to live. I have only used your Sarsaparilla a short time, and there has a wonderful change been wrought in me. I am now able to walk all over the city. I raise no blood, and my cough has left me. You can well imagine that I am thankful for these results. Your obedient servant, WM. RUSSELL, 65 Catherine s'.
